

MELJAC gives air conditioning panels a classy makeover

Brass, with a Brushed Brass finish (Daikin model)

MELJAC, the leader in luxury electrical fittings, creates bespoke brass casings for air conditioning control panels.

The brand, well known for its expertise, gives its customers the option of harmonising their switches, sockets and other electrical controls.

These models, made in France, offer unique quality and elegance – the perfect finishing touch for a sophisticated interior.

All MELJAC products are made with quality materials and bear the prestigious “Origine France Garantie” label.

The beauty of brass

MELJAC creates bespoke brass casings for a host of electrical products, including air conditioning control panels, thermostats, videophones and alarms, for a wide range of brands on the market.

Simply provide MELJAC with the original casing, often coated in plastic, and its design office will come up with a more elegant alternative.

Customers can personalise their model with engravings and choose their preferred finish from a chart of 26 shades, all produced by hand in keeping with the finest tradition.
