

MELJAC adds a new finish to its colour chart: Aged Brass

MELJAC, the leader in luxury switches, is proud to present its latest finish innovation: the Aged Brass, a bright glossy brass coated with wax and an iridescent patina in soft shades of brown, which changes over time with the natural process of oxidation.

This finish, created using skilled craftsmanship and complex production techniques, makes each model unique.

The surface treatment on the brass, applied entirely by hand made in France, reflects the know-how of the MELJAC brand, renowned for the quality of its products.

■ The beauty of brass revealed by human craftsmanship

This new brass effect was developed after several requests for bespoke finishes from customers looking for a “live” finish that would change over time and to harmonise with the the colour of their electrical fittings with other metal fixtures such as door handles and taps.

The Aged Brass finish gives the metal a patinated look by embracing the natural process of oxidation that takes place over time. This breathes life into the brass, subtly changing its appearance and making each model unique.

With this new addition, the MELJAC colour chart now contains a choice of 30 finishes.

- Sample plate available in the sample box of 30 standard finishes
- Available for the Classique, Ellipse and Damier collections
- Customisable with engraving or screen-printed words, symbols, pictograms, etc.
