Home automation with a design aesthetic

The theme of this year's EquipHotel show is "conscious hospitality". Energy saving is a highly topical issue, and hospitality establishments are on the lookout for the best solutions that combine performance and elegance.

MELJAC's products can be adapted for use with all home automation systems on the market and can also serve as casings for other devices (air conditioning control panels, access control, audio, intercom systems, etc.), offering the same high level of aesthetic quality.

Clients can harmonise their fittings perfectly, while remaining free to choose the technology that suits them best.

In the home automation space at the MELJAC stand, visitors can test out sample scenarios using brass control panels with elegant finishes.
