

Design & technology: Meljac presents its home automation solutions

Meljac, the French manufacturer of luxury electrical fittings, has multiple solutions that combine technology and design.

All the brand's collections can be adapted for use with any home automation system on the market and can also serve as sleek, elegant casings for other devices (air conditioning control panels, access control, audio and intercom systems, lighting control, etc.).

With Meljac, you can harmonise your fittings while remaining free to choose the technology that suits you best.

Meljac reveals the elegance in home automation

Meljac's creations are all designed and crafted in France using quality materials such as brass, tempered glass and porcelain. The brand is renowned for its exquisite quality.

Meljac's products can be adapted for use with existing home automation systems, with four options:

Traditional, pre-wired

All the designs in Meljac's collections are compatible

The Meljac switch is directly connected to the distribution panel by the installer, or snap fitted to a module in the back box.

Cresnet: embedded intelligence

Meljac development rooted in innovation

Meljac integrates Crestron smart solutions directly in its mechanisms with its own control card that simplifies connection.

Casings

Bespoke products using Meljac's know-how

Meljac creates bespoke casings to house keypads and screens for all types of home automation product.

Control card

Quick and easy connection, embeddable control

For some projects, Meljac can develop an electronic home automation card that replaces the wires in the switch.

The installer connects a smart interface to the card.
